Several years ago, we introduced Vision 2020, an ambitious plan that we believe the Lord would have us follow to have Bryan College become all that He would have us be.

We have been gratified with the enthusiastic response to this roadmap—from a major gift to fund construction of the new entrance to class projects to purchase lions (talk to Alumni Director David Tromanhauser about that), to encouraging visits, calls, and letters. Dreams are coming true and faithful prayers are being answered as construction continues for the Route 27 entrance that is scheduled to be completed by August 2010.

We believe the Lord’s hand certainly is on Vision 2020. At the same time that we saw the plans for the new entrance to campus delayed, we saw God use His timetable to enable us to modify our plans, save money, and make progress toward completing other elements of the master plan.

I am reminded that Isaiah told the Israelites that God’s ways and thoughts are higher than our own. How we need to constantly seek Him! Trusting in our God for direction and wisdom and trusting His way always yields a greater harvest and enduring results for His Kingdom.

God’s blessing abounds at Bryan. During the past year we have witnessed another record enrollment, seen the largest graduating class in college history, added the William Jennings Bryan Center for Law and Public Policy to the Bryan Institute for Critical Thought and Practice, and announced plans to add golf and women’s softball to Bryan’s line-up of intercollegiate athletics.

Bryan students won the Tennessee Music Teachers Association piano competition, a student received a prestigious Rotary Cultural Scholarship to study and serve as an American cultural ambassador in Ecuador, and our students overall continued to score exceptionally well on national standardized exams in their major fields.

We trust this annual report will be an encouragement to you as we present some of the highlights from the 2008-09 academic year. As we earnestly seek His ways and thoughts, God is blessing Bryan College. And we believe that is, in part, because of the faithful prayers and support of friends like you. For that we are eternally grateful.

Blessings,

As the 2008-09 academic year opened in August 2008, signs pointed to an impending economic recession and dramatic changes in the political landscape, both creating uncertainty for private Christian institutions. President Livesay observed at that time, “We are beginning our 79th year in a most difficult, challenging time, but those are times when God does great things.”

“Great things” began with enrollment, a record of 1,079 students, up from 1,054 in 2007. Convocation, the formal assembly opening the academic year, featured an address by Dr. D. Michael Lindsay, author of the 2007 book Faith in the Halls of Power: How Evangelicals Joined the American Elite. He challenged students to consider how to use power: “Worldly power is a complicated thing. Is it something followers of Christ should seek or shun? If you have power—and all of us, by the world’s standards, have power—use it for good.”

Jandi Heagen, a sophomore Communication Studies/Politics and Government major, received a Rotary Cultural Scholarship Grant from Rotary International. These prestigious awards have provided international studies opportunities for nearly 38,000 students since 1947. Students serve as goodwill ambassadors to their host countries and give presentations about their homelands to Rotary clubs and other groups. Jandi began her studies in Ecuador in the Fall of 2009.

The Center for Origins Research marked its 20th anniversary in 2008-09, celebrating its contribution in the areas of flood geology and baraminology, the study of created kinds. CORE, under the direction of Dr. Todd Wood, presented conferences in Chattanooga, Tenn., in November, Dayton, Tenn., in February, and Louisville, Ky., in July.

At homecoming in October, Dr. Livesay presented an overview of Vision 2020, the master plan that sets goals for campus development over the coming 12 years. Goals include an enrollment of 1,200 traditional and 600 degree-completion and graduate students, including students in additional programs beyond the current MBA. Facilities listed in the plan include a new entrance off U.S. 27, a building to house the Bryan Institute for Critical Thought and Practice, a performing arts center, athletics and convention center, and an administration building.
During homecoming, an alumnus pledged $1 million to complete construction of the entrance. Ground was broken for the first phase of the project, between U.S. 27 and Richland Street, in February. Groundbreaking for the second phase, between Richland Street and campus, was held in April, and construction on that phase began after the school year ended.

Bryan piano students swept top honors at the fall Tennessee Music Teachers Association state competition. Kimberly McKennett, a junior from Port Alsworth, Alaska, won the competition; Natalie McGehee, a sophomore from Rustin, La., was runner-up; and her sister, Brittany McGehee, a senior, earned honorable mention. Each is a piano pedagogy major.

Recognizing the need to coordinate a campuswide effort to attract and retain students, Michael Sapienza, formerly director of enrollment management, was promoted to vice president of enrollment management.

Bryan piano students swept top honors at the fall Tennessee Music Teachers Association state competition. Kimberly McKennett, a junior from Port Alsworth, Alaska, won the competition; Natalie McGehee, a sophomore from Rustin, La., was runner-up; and her sister, Brittany McGehee, a senior, earned honorable mention. Each is a piano pedagogy major.

Some 600 students, faculty, and staff took part in Bryan’s fifth annual MLK Community Service Day in January. Work teams spent the day assisting public and private agencies and individuals with tasks ranging from construction to cleaning.

For the third year, Students Stopping the Trafficking of Persons (SSTOP) hosted a conference on human trafficking, focusing on law enforcement efforts to halt the scourge. While previous conferences were designed to raise awareness about the issue, this year’s program helped students understand what is being done and what can be done to combat this evil.
Dr. Michael Kazin, author of the recent biography of William Jennings Bryan, A Godly Hero, highlighted Bryan’s Heritage Week celebration. Students also presented a biographical sketch of the college namesake.

Women’s softball and golf teams for men and women will be added to the lineup of Bryan intercollegiate athletics during the 2010-11 academic year. Bryan is the only school in the Appalachian Athletic Conference without softball, and golf will add another dimension to the college’s offerings.

Michael Gerson, former speechwriter for President George W. Bush, headlined the second annual William Jennings Bryan Opportunity Program fundraising dinner, encouraging those present to embrace the evangelical tradition of social activism. He also spoke at the New Entrance Phase II groundbreaking ceremony, praising William Jennings Bryan for having a “single message, that every life counts.”

Dr. J. Daryl Charles was named director and senior scholar of the Bryan Institute for Critical Thought and Practice. Dr. Charles’ academic work focuses on a biblical worldview perspective on contemporary issues.

Between the December 2008 and May 2009 graduation ceremonies, Bryan awarded a record number of diplomas – 20 Master’s of Business Administration, 194 Bachelor of Arts, and 203 Bachelor of Science degrees, for a total of 417.

Periodical files in the library were sorted and moved to the second floor, and the space they formerly occupied was converted to an Academic Support Center, providing increased space for face-to-face and online tutoring, a new Design Center for film and multimedia development, and a large conference/classroom for various workshops and group presentations.

As I near the end of my time at Bryan, I am beginning to realize just how much of an impact attending Bryan has had on who I am and I am so thankful for my experience here. I appreciate so much all who support Bryan College and have been responsible for this wonderful, enriching experience.

Highlight: The fall RA retreat. It was neat to see a group of people with way different personalities, styles of doing things, come together as a team because we had the same goal and responsibilities. By the time it ended, some people I had met three days before I felt like I had known forever.

Bryan is a very special place. I really appreciate that God has placed me here; that’s a huge blessing. In a lot of ways, the reason I was able to come here is the scholarship I received. How do you say ‘thank you’ for something like that?

Hannah Hamrick, Callahan, Florida
English Literature major

Active in Student Government Association and the PALS program

Highlight: One of the highlights of my last school year was what our Resident Director Amanda Allquist would do for the girls of Huston Dorm. We loved having “Mugs ‘n Muffins” together, a time for us girls to chat and to sing worship songs in our dorm lounge. Also, we formed an international dinner club, in which we cooked various types of ethnic foods every week and would research the history and cultures of the different countries while we ate together.

I am so grateful for the support you provide to Bryan College. The Lord is truly working here, developing both the minds and the hearts of students, and we pray the Lord’s blessing on each of you for the contribution you are making to our education.
Millie Jones, Abbeville, S.C.

English Literature major

Involved with Acts Project (spent two weeks in Rwanda); Junior/Senior committee; peer tutor

Highlight: The first Broad Street Film Festival; it was really good to partner with Covenant and to bring our similar atmospheres and commendable talents together into a truly excellent event.

I would not be able to be at Bryan College without the sponsorship of those who donate to this school, so from the bottom of my heart—thank you for your generosity that gives small-town girls like me the chance to be somewhere like Bryan.
Andrew Sweeney, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Exercise-Health Science/pre-Med major

Active in Chorale, works in Awana at his church

Highlight: For Junior/Senior we traveled to Franklin, Tenn., and had an excellent evening! Great food, classy atmospheres, and an ice skating rink.

Bryan would not be the place it is today without the gracious giving that supports its mission. We are trained to seek Christ in all things, and without your generosity I would not have been able to return all four years.
Attorney, Dallas, Texas

I appreciate Bryan's commitment to academic excellence. Bryan College laid the groundwork for me to pursue a graduate law degree and provided the tools needed for me to help develop a successful law practice— and did it without ever compromising a “Christ Above All” approach.
Howard Spanogle, Class of 1959
Journalism Educator, Asheville, N.C.

I entered Bryan not knowing much about “liberal arts” or “Christian liberal arts,” but I departed with lifelong goals and motivation—a great reason to invest in creative ways to nurture spiritual and intellectual development at Bryan College.
Jeremy Toliver, Class of 1997
Contractor, Dayton, Tenn.

*I was a communications major, and use skills I learned at Bryan every day, from talking to clients to dealing with subcontractors to doing conflict resolution. Bryan offers a holistic education: professors don’t just tell you, “learn this,” but tell you, “learn this; this is what it looks like in the real world.”

I appreciate the efforts the college and students make to reach out to the community and the world. Break for Change is a major focus, and I’ve had my crew involved with the MLK Community Service Day the past four years.*
William A. Venable III, Class of 1965

System Manager, Commercial Pilot, Flight Instructor, IT Consultant (retired) Acworth, Ga.
